

LULL PUZZLES U. N. FORCES AS CHINESE RED HORDES SUSPEND ATTACKS AFTER OVERRUNNING CHONGCHON RIVER LINE; SCORES, HOWEVER, MAINTAIN ONSLAUGHTS

Drive Aimed at Trapping or Smashing the U. S. 10th Corps

N. W. FRONT QUIET U. N. Troops in Northwest Disengaging Successfully From Enemy

By Howard Handelman
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)
TOKYO, Nov. 30.—(INS)—A puzzling lull suddenly fell over the northwest Korean front today when Chinese Red hordes suspended their attacks after overrunning the Chongchon river line above Poyongyang.

But scores of thousands of tank-supported Chinese soldiers were maintaining their onslauls in northeast Korea in a drive aimed at trapping or smashing U. S. Marine and Army units of the 10th Corps.

However, the enemy push in the northeast apparently had not yet reached the proportions of the enormous 200,000-man Red offensive which came to an inexplicable pause in the northwest.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman in Korea said at mid-afternoon that almost the entire northwest front had been quiet for several hours, with few reports of contact with the enemy.

At latest report, the Eighth Army's American, South Korean, British and Turkish troops all along the receding northwest front were declared to be disengaging themselves successfully from the Red forces.

They were falling back toward the south to attempt establishment of a new defense line closer to the UN-occupied former North Korean Red capital of Poyongyang.

Locations of the retreating UN divisions and brigades were not disclosed, nor was it immediately clear where it was planned to set up new defenses.

Below the Chongchon, the next major natural defense barrier is the long Taedong river which flows south and then southwest past the southern edge of Poyongyang to empty into the Yellow Sea.

The sudden cessation of enemy attacks in the fifth day of the giant Chinese offensive aroused speculation.

It was not immediately apparent whether Chinese forces halted their onslauls to consolidate their gains or to bring up food and ammunition supplies for renewal of the drive.

Just before the lull, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker's hard-pressed Eighth Army forces were fighting desperately to ward off enemy frontal and flanking blows and avert a threatening disaster.

The bulk of three American and one South Korean divisions as well as a British Commonwealth and a Turkish brigade appeared to have succeeded in eluding entrapment.

These forces—including the U. S. 24th, 25th and Second and the ROK (Republic of Korea) First Divisions—completed what was officially termed "a masterpiece of organized withdrawal against overwhelming odds" from the Chongchon bridgehead.

The majority of a 100,000-man UN army appeared to have escaped to the Chongchon's south side where Chinese flanking forces already were driving into their rear.

The latter were held off by the heroic resistance of troops of the U. S. First Cavalry and Second Infantry.

Association To Provide 4 School Bus Shelters

ERWINNA, Nov. 30.—Election of officers took place at the annual meeting of Tinicum Improvement Association, here, recently when the members also decided where to locate four school bus shelters and to improve the township road signs.

Newly-elected officers are Warren Reynolds, president; Mrs. Evelyn Ewald, vice president; Anna S. Bickel, secretary, and John Reilly, treasurer.

The possible designation of the four school bus shelters which are in the final stage of painting occupied much of the discussion period.

The shelters were built by volunteers of Tinicum township and the materials were purchased by the T. I. A. Bus drivers had been asked for advice in the placing of the shelters. Harvey Haney invited any member to take a trip with him to ascertain and point out the best location.

William Jefferson, speaking of directional and road signs, informed the group that laminated boards and weather proof ply wood are unobtainable now. He suggested that the T. I. A. gather all the old metal signs, with permission, to refinish them and put them up in their proper places.

WOUNDED THOUSANDS SAVED BY NEW DRUGS

Greatly Improved Penicillin Aids Korean Casualties

INFECTIONS ARE FEW

This is the second of three articles on the great progress which is being made with "wonder drugs," particularly in the treatment of the wounded in Korea.

By Felix Cotten
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(INS)—

The lives of thousands of men severely wounded in the Korean fighting have been saved by the greatly improved modern brand of penicillin and certain other "wonder drugs," most of which are being used in war for the first time.

This is the testimony of doctors treating wounded men arriving at the Army Medical Center in Washington.

Maj. Gen. Paul H. Streit, commanding general in charge of the Medical Center, told International News Service:

"There is a tremendous difference between the results obtained with drugs in World War II, and in Korea. In many cases even the most cruelly wounded men are brought back without infections, or at least with no infections worth talking about."

Streit was paying tribute to the antibiotics, the powerful new drugs in which the product of one microorganism is used to fight another.

Penicillin, which came into use in the latter days of World War II, still is the most widely applicable and valuable of these drugs. It has been greatly purified and is being produced in large quantities. In addition, since World War II, several new antibiotics have been developed.

Instances were cited by Streit in his report on the progress of the antibiotics.

"To Every Creature" Is Title of Fine Film

Heathen customs hidden in South American jungles and a monkey killed, cooked, and eaten are a few of the dramatic sequences included in the new 16 mm. sound-color film, "To Every Creature," to be shown in the Calvary Baptist Church, Green Lane, Saturday, at 7:45 p. m., according to the Rev. Lehman Strauss, pastor.

Filmed and recorded on a recent trip to South America by Dr. Irwin Moon, director of the Los Angeles branch of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, "To Every Creature" is a fresh approach to missionary activities. These Indian tribes, shown as they exist without help, hope, and God, have received a message from missionaries that has changed hearts and transformed lives; but the work could be multiplied by modern transportation and communication. "To Every Creature" demonstrates this by actual stories of missionaries who suffered great hardships and narrowly escaped death in canoes and on jungle trails. Other sequences show the real help modern communications and "planes give to the pioneer mission workers."

"To Every Creature" emphasizes training missionary technicians as pilots, and for maintenance repair, communication and photography work on the mission field. These subjects are included in the new missionary technical training course at Moody Bible Institute. With these technical specialists on hand, others trained in Bible work can devote more time to preaching and teaching the natives.

BUSINESS DISTRICTS TAKE ON FESTIVE AIR

'Window Shoppers' Become Buyers When They See Fine Display of Goods

MUSIC IS AMPLIFIED

Merchants, clerks, and professional decorators have had a hand in beautifying stores and business houses in Bristol, as well as streets in the business areas.

The business districts have taken on a festive air for the Yuletide; as have also the display windows which are filled with goods for Christmas gift—saying.

Effective tomorrow, those stores co-operating with the Mill Street Business Men's Association, will remain open every evening until Christmas, according to an announcement made by Charles Richmond, president of the association.

This practice, which has been followed for many years, will enable shoppers to better budget time in their Christmas buying programs.

Residents of Bristol and other communities in lower Bucks County, in arriving at the business sections of this borough, are put at once in a holiday mood (if such is not the case before they arrive), by the vari-colored lights strung along Mill street; the "Season's Greetings" signs, with holly wreaths surrounding, which appear on light standards; the ropes of laurel, and the gaily-illuminated tree. The tree is located at Radcliffe and Mill streets. Along Farragut avenue also appears a lighted tree, and Christmas music is amplified at intervals. The two local businessmen's associations—Har-

Native of Bucks County Writes Dramatic Novel

The dramatic story of one woman's fight for dignity and recognition has just been published. Entitled "The Story of Harriet," this is the first novel of Mary S. Paxson, 78-year-old Pennsylvania Quaker writer.

"The Story of Harriet" centers about the childhood of a motherless girl who is abused and rejected by her drunken father. It follows her adventures as a young woman, her betrayal by her callous lover and the tragic death of her child.

Slowly Harriet Jutland rebuilds her life, turning a rundown farm into a successful enterprise and becoming a respected author who finds her real fulfillment in caring for needy children. In trenchant prose, Miss Paxson reveals her Quaker optimism and faith in humanity's ability to overcome all obstacles when the will to do so is present.

Born in Carversville, of Quaker parentage, Miss Paxson was educated in Quaker schools and seminaries and eventually settled in Bucks County. A constant traveler, and active in her community, Miss Paxson has also carried on a career of lecturing, research and writing for organizations. During both World Wars she devoted herself to Red Cross work.

Miss Paxson is the author of "Mary Paxson: Her Book," a childhood diary which ran into four editions. "The Story of Harriet" was first drafted 24 years ago, but it was not until the author retired from her other activities that she was able to complete the book. She now resides in a Quaker boarding home in Newtown.

Croydon Resident Draws From Experience of The Recent Storm

URGES ACTION NOW

By J. William Harris

We have just gone through a harrowing ordeal, and at this writing we are still not back to normal.

We are profoundly grateful to Philadelphia Electric, and Bell Telephone Company employees, who still are working 24 to 30 hour shifts, to restore service.

We are also indebted to the members of the fire companies, who stood by at their respective firehouses, when power line failures made it impossible to sound the sirens.

As always, the Bucks County Rescue Squad was on the job doing yeoman work in evacuating families from flooded homes, plus a myriad of other duties.

Nature gave us just a very small sample of what we can expect when bombs fall in our vicinity.

Had some of us known how we

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

The fellow who was distributing "What to Do When the A-Bomb Comes" books has shifted his line to snow shovels in most of the country.

Scientists have worked for years on super-weapons but they still are B-grade compared with Lady Nature on a rampage.

One fellow in Pittsburgh says "I don't mind snowdrifts up to my window but why does it have to be the third floor?"

And Connecticut people who watched their shore homes drift into Long Island Sound last week-end can't be convinced that man has any more wicked weapon on the drafting board than a combination of high wind and high tide.

It takes an occasional shocker like this to make man realize that he may be an adult to other men but he's just a helpless boy to the elements.

All I know is that when the electric line goes dead we don't seem nearly as self-sufficient as we thought we were.

But when the lights go up again . . . so does ego estimation.

OFFICERS SELECTED AND NAME CHOSEN BY GROUP TO SPONSOR ACCREDITED HOSPITAL FOR THE BRISTOL AREA

James E. Harris is Named President of "Lower Bucks County Hospital Association"—Group To Be Chartered and Start Active Work of Promoting The Hospital Project.

It was definitely decided last evening to organize a hospital association and to further explore the possibilities of establishing a hospital somewhere in the Bristol area. The decision was reached at a meeting held in the Bristol municipal building which was attended by 37 persons out of a potential attendance of 110. It was stated that in addition to the 37 present, at least 10 more of the 110 had signified their willingness to support the hospital project.

The organization was formed so that the proper procedures may be taken to ascertain the amount of state and federal aid available and to learn the sources of possible contributions.

In selecting officers the group named James E. Harris, Croydon, president; Joseph Elberson, Bristol, secretary; Harold F. Hunter, Bristol, treasurer. A charter committee is to be named. It will be the duty of this committee to draft constitution and by-laws and to take the necessary steps to have the organization chartered.

In the selection of a name for the association, the one and only suggestion was adopted: "Lower Bucks County Hospital Association."

Mr. Harris will be called upon to name a committee to select a site, one on financing and fund-raising and a committee on public education. Such sub-committees as industrial, business, special personal gifts, and house-to-house canvass were suggested.

The organization of the group followed a pro and con discussion of the hospital subject. Clyde J. Waterman presided as chairman, and E. L. Helwig reviewed briefly the meeting of the initial group of 22, a meeting of the physicians and read a list of organizations adopting resolutions favoring the project.

Mr. Charles Paxson, superintendent of Delaware County Hospital, and a specialist on hospital organization and administration, was called upon to address the meeting. Dr. Paxson made the original survey which indicated the need of a fully accredited hospital in the Bristol area, it was stated.

Mr. Helwig in preliminary remarks said he wanted it distinctly understood that in proposing the organization of an accredited hospital here "no aspersions are being cast upon the Harriman Hospital. Everybody in the area owes a debt of gratitude to Dr. George T. Fox, who has carried on as he has and he must have drawn upon his resources to do so."

It was pointed out that the community has outgrown the Harriman Hospital.

Mr. Paxson in his talk was very informal and following the recitation of some of the facts in connection with the hospital project here, he answered many questions. He said there are few communities the size of the Bristol area which do not have hospitals and many smaller communities have hospitals. He discussed the technical advantages of a hospital in a community. He told of the big changes in the medical profession since World War II and the many new drugs now in use. He said that a hospital acts as a diagnostic center for the community, where without a hospital physicians have to depend upon clinical diagnosis. "The practice of medicine today," said the speaker, "has become very scientific."

Mr. Paxson stated that a state survey showed that cases from the Montgomery-Bucks County area are distributed now in about this proportion:

AGENT OF RUSSIA

All agents of a foreign government are now required to register with the Attorney General of the United States. That is not a punishment, but a precaution. There is nothing wrong, per se, with acting as the agent of a foreign government.

Nevertheless the communist party of the United States has chosen to defy the registration law, and to refuse the registration, financial information and membership lists it should have made available to Attorney General McGrath by October 23, as other agents have done.

So Mr. McGrath, in accordance with the law—passage of which was opposed by new dealers and which was passed by Congress over Truman's veto—has filed with the Subversive Activities Control Board a 4,800-word petition, asking the board to order such registration.

For Americans abreast of the news, the contents of his petition are old stuff. The petition states, for instance, that throughout its existence the communist party has never knowingly deviated from the views of "Russia, the Russian communist party, the comintern or cominform," and other leaders of the world communist movement. Again, "the communist party now receives and . . . in the past has received financial aid" from the same sources. The party and its members consider "the allegiance they owe the United States as being subordinate to their loyalty and obligations to the government of the Soviet Union."

From its inception, moreover, the party's leaders have been and "are subject to and recognize the disciplinary power" of Russia and other world communist agencies.

All this is what Americans said when Roosevelt first was handed the crazy idea of recognizing Soviet Russia and immediately accepted it as the sort of thing that was right down his alley. It is what Americans, in and out of Congress, said when Truman decided their charges as "red herings." It is exactly what Senator McCarthy is now talking about.

BLAME THE PRESIDENT

Charges are multiplying daily that the nation's deplorable international situation is attributable to the fact this nation's foreign policy has not been evolved by both major political parties.

While there has been much talk of a bipartisan program, President Truman has all but ignored the opposition party. Bipartisanship has consisted of Truman, Acheson et al deciding the policy and then permitting the Republicans to support it.

Secretary of State Acheson continues to be the object of criticism and demands mount that the nation's entire foreign policy be brought into the open and re-examined.

As the matter stands, the United States is deeply involved in war in Asia and the administration is trying appeasement of Red China.

Calls For Strong Civilian Defense

we were going to be affected by this catastrophe we could have averted some of our own discomfort. But in the same light, with a furthering of our knowledge, plus a well knit and thoroughly trained organization, we would have been able to ease the suffering and discomfort of others.

A lesson has been brought home from this occurrence, that we must fortify ourselves, to reduce many of the hardships of future calamities.

Had we been fully operative as a defense agency, even as a peacetime endeavor, wouldn't it have been a magnificent thing these last two days, to have called for a full mobilization, and thereby had many hands where we actually had only a few? How much easier the job would have been for all.

In Civil defense, we are organizing to help each other, to help ourselves. If we know how to do a job, it makes the task so much easier, and less fearsome.

We do not intend to be alarmists, but do you know that industry is girding its loins for possible war measures, in 1951 and 1952. They have organized groups for plant protection against sabotage and bombing. However remote as that may seem, we note that the armed forces are calling up 40,000 men monthly, which means that we must have trained personnel in the event an emergency arises.

Industry has prepared its budgets for 1951 and 1952 on the basis that men and women must replace those who are called into service.

This should be a guide to the civilian population that they have a duty to prepare themselves, to defend their homes and loved ones, and to supplement the protection afforded by the Armed Forces.

We are particularly concerned about mass evacuation, and the care of those dispossessed from their homes, should any particular section be bombed.

Imagine, if you will, what will happen if Philadelphia should be subjected to a bomb attack. Rigid discipline must be formulated and personnel trained to preserve some semblance of order.

In the very near future we will have public meetings at which time we will give further information about Civil Defense Organization, and show motion pictures on the effects of the Atomic Bomb, and instruction for your safety, in the event of an attack.

Your life depends on knowing what to do. Come and find out. Watch for the date of this important meeting in your community.

The steering committee of the Bristol Township Civil Defense Council will hold a meeting on December 5, to plan public meetings, at which every citizen will be given an opportunity in fields of First Aid, Aircraft Spotting, Wardens, Auxiliary Police, Evacuation, Communications, etc.

Loyal United States Citizens of Bristol Township are asked to be prepared and voluntarily become an active member of civil defense.

Wounded Thousands Saved by New Drugs

which men shot through the chest were back at the front within a relatively short time. He said cases of osteomyelitis, or bone infection, are "down to a mere dribble." He recalled that the Medical Center has successfully treated three men with small foreign particles in the muscular walls of their hearts.

Despite the effectiveness of antibiotics, Army medical men emphasize that they are not "magic," and are no substitute for sound surgical principles or well-trained surgeons.

They stress the need for continued care in avoiding infections in operations.

Streit declared that much of the success in treating wounded men in Korea has been due to the presence of trained physicians and surgeons in the aid stations and hospitals. He paid high tribute to the value of the training program which has been conducted since World War II.

Army surgeons point out that antibiotics are not satisfactory where for some reason the infected area is inaccessible to them. For many wounded men, therefore, surgery is the only answer.

At least one case has been noted where a hidden abscess was found in the brain of a man who had received a head wound. This man had been treated with one or more antibiotics, which saved his life by killing germs in his blood stream. But the germs walled themselves off in the abscess, and would have killed him eventually if their refuge had remained undiscovered.

Nevertheless, Army doctors credit antibiotics with these remarkable results:

1. Saving the lives of a substantial percentage of men who otherwise would have died of wounds.
2. Preventing permanent disabilities in many others.
3. Curbing infections to an extent where definitive operations can be accomplished sooner, thus restoring men to health and reducing the period of hospitalization.
4. Making operations unnecessary in numerous instances.

of men arriving at the Medical Center with germ-free foreign particles blasted into their bodies.

Little wads of clothing, which in the Korean rice paddies became literally soaked with germs, have been found in men's lungs completely sterilized, a tribute to the power of antibiotics.

To Test Airplane Flight Effects On Human Body

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30—(INS)—A unique joint program to examine the effects of airplane flight on the human body has been announced by the University of Pennsylvania and the Naval Air Development Center at Johnsville, Pa.

Under the affiliation, there will be a mutual exchange of Personnel and facilities, including the big "human centrifuge." The latter is a machine capable of whirling a human at speeds and under forces identical with those sustained in flight.

Highly complex and sensitive devices will be used to record the blood pressure, temperature, pulse and other physiological phenomena while the centrifuge is in operation.

The agreement of affiliation was signed yesterday by Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, and Capt. Seldon B.

Spangler, Commander of the Naval Air Development Center.

A "THANK YOU" ALL AROUND...

Saturday's storm will be long remembered, not the least by those temporarily deprived of electric service. At the height of the storm, service was lost to not less than 75,000 of our customers. Our telephone facilities were swamped, and thousands of customers were unable to communicate with us. Important highways were impassable. Overflowing streams, high winds, dangling "live" wires, and other hazardous conditions combined to make service restoration an almost impossible task during those hectic hours.

Adversities of this kind bring out the best in people. Many acts of endurance, self-sacrifice, and courage lessened the full effects of the "blow," and hurried the return to normal living.

High among them was the helpful attitude of our customers. They knew the storm was an Act of Providence, for which no human agency could be blamed. And they responded accordingly. Altogether, it was a demonstration of real patience and understanding.

An inspiring example was set by the army of thousands of loyal Philadelphia Electric employees who labored day and night under grueling weather conditions to restore power. For this extra effort beyond the normal call of duty we are deeply grateful.

Fortunately, the storm is now history and almost everything is back in service.

But in reviewing the events of the past week, we of Philadelphia Electric want to add once again a sincere "Thank you" all around.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1950
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—There's a widely held notion that the biggest share of the tax burden in this country falls on corporations and big-income individuals; that, because of our graduated, sliding scale of income tax rates, low income earners get off relatively light.

With that idea being as widely held as it is, I wonder how many people realize that wage earners whose incomes are as low as $3,000 a year pay roughly one-fourth of that income in various forms of taxes?

In case you're skeptical, that's the conclusion reached in a study made by Rep. John Taber, of New York, ranking Republican member of the House Appropriations Committee, and members of the committee staff.

The study takes into account all forms of taxes—federal income, excise, etc., as well as local and state; also taxes imposed on corporations which are passed along, in the form of higher prices for goods and services, to you and me as ultimate consumers. The ardent advocates of big corporate taxes never bother explaining that in the final analysis those taxes are really paid by the little-guy consumers; nevertheless, that's almost always the case.

The study makes a case history for a married age-earner with one child, who makes $2,000 a year. Out of that $3,000 income, it concludes that this three-person family pays a total of $721.90, or 24.06 per cent in taxes.

The case is hypothetical, of course, but as nearly as possible it represents an average of taxpayers in that class. So in the breakdown which follows, the details are subject to haggling from individuals who may pay more or less in some particular category of taxes. Nevertheless, the tax experts contend that this represents a good average case.

Here's how the study breaks down the $721.90 total for taxes paid by a $3,000-income, three-member family:

Federal income taxes—$153.00.
Social Security (old age survivors insurance, which is deducted by your employer from your weekly pay check at the rate of 1½ per cent, up to a total of $45 a year)—$45.00.

Corporate taxes (taxes imposed on corporations but passed along to consumers in the form of higher prices)—$201.60.

Federal alcohol taxes (teetotalers will quarrel with this one, but it is an average based on Bureau of Labor statistics figures)—$26.00.

Tobacco taxes (the same "No, indeed," argument will be advanced here by non-smokers; but again it's an average compiled from BLS figures)—$25.00.

Amusement taxes (movie, theater, sporting events, and similar admissions tickets)—$19.00.

Manufacturers' excise taxes (on such items as gasoline, automobiles, radios, refrigerators, sporting goods, photographic equipment, and dozens of other items, paid by the manufacturer but passed along to consumers)—$27.90.

Transportation and communications taxes (railroad, bus, airplane tickets, telegrams, radio messages, telephone calls)—$17.70.

Retailers excise taxes (paid directly by the consumer on furs, jewelry, luggage, handbags, wallets, toilet preparations—including baby oils and powders—and other items)—$7.10.

Other federal taxes (stamp taxes, sugar, vegetable oils, etc.)—$3.45.
State and local taxes (property, income, etc., averaged out, with wide discrepancies and variations likely to show up depending on where you live)—$196.15.

Get out your own pencil and add them up; the total is $721.90. Then, if you care to follow it through, divide $3,000—our hypothetical family's income—into that $721.90, and you'll get 24.06 per cent. That represents the percentage of our family's income that goes for taxes. It's less than one per cent short of one-quarter.

But the point made by Rep. Taber and the tax experts is that costs of government should not be anywhere near the astronomical figures found in current government budgets; and that if little-fellow taxpayers realized how much of their own pitifully small income is going to the upkeep of the paternalistic and wasteful kind of government we now have, they would join in the fight to cut government back to its proper size.

Congress is going to enact new and higher taxes to help pay the fabulous billions of dollars which we are spending to put our defenses in shape to meet possible Russian attacks. The biggest share of these new taxes will be imposed on corporations, in some form or other, and on big-income individuals. But before the small income taxpayer breathes any hopeful sighs that he is going to escape the increased load, it would be wise to face the fact that those higher corporate tax rates undoubtedly will filter down to Mr. Consumer, as they always do.

He just pays in the form of increased consumer prices, instead of increased visible taxes.

Think it over.

"Window shoppers" cannot help but become buyers as they gaze into the attractive windows which bespeak well-stocked stores. There is a goodly cross-section of gift suggestions in the window displays arranged in such manner that their attractiveness and practical value as presents are readily noted.

Merchants have gone "all out" to make it possible for individuals to secure suitable gifts in variety for men, women, children of all ages and infants, as well as family "group gifts" right in Bristol. This saves time and money necessary for treks elsewhere. Bristol merchants know they can match in price and value practically any item desired for holiday gift-giving, and they are sparing neither time nor effort in making that point known.

"Build Bristol—Buy Bristol" is not just a slogan, it is sound advice for Christmas shoppers.

EMILIE, Nov. 30—Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Shoemaker returned home Monday afternoon following a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eichen, New Paris, O., former residents of Emilie.

Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker experienced a thrilling journey home. They left New Paris, O., Saturday morning, where there was no snow. At Springfield, O., they found more and more as they travelled. By Saturday evening they reached Claysville, Pa., near Wheeling, W. Va., where their car, along with 3000 others, became stranded in 37 inches of snow on the road with drifts much higher. A clearing was provided for these travelers in private homes throughout Claysville, population of which is about 1,000.

Monday morning they were to journey as far as Scenery, Pa., in the Alleghenies, where they were again stopped due to 31 inches of snow. They had to wait in their car until midnight Monday night, when the roads had been cleared. They then drove from midnight until Tuesday afternoon when they finally reached home. The temperature of the entire trip was around zero sub-zero.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Two Bristol Men Are Sent To The "Pen"

"Young women have the right to walk along the streets, or roads, of this country without being molested," said Judge Biester. The young defendant was found guilty of picking up a 19-year-old Bristol girl as she left the movies August 21, attacking her and criminally assaulting her.

Pleading guilty to burglary, larceny and receiving stolen goods, Bernard DiAngelo, 27, 325 Brook street, who is employed in a boiler works, was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $1 and serve not less than two nor more than five years in the penitentiary.

The defendant, who is a third offender, robbed the bar and restaurant of Angelo Fusco, Nov. 12, when he stole more than $1,600. The amount of $1,475 was returned. Chief County Detective Fred H. Kohler, of Doylestown, testified, when the defendant was picked up in Trenton, N. J., by the police.

Chief Linford Jones, of Bristol, testified the sum of $339.91 was returned in cash and checks, amounting to $1,058, were also returned to the owner, Fusco.

The defendant, who has been in previous trouble, blamed his crime because he drinks too much. "Many people drink too much, in fact, some are alcoholics, but they don't necessarily commit crimes," said Judge Biester.

Clubwomen Are To Hear Red Cross Representative

Angelo F. Menna, field director of military services, American National Red Cross, will be the speaker at the Travel Club session tomorrow afternoon. This meeting, which was scheduled for a morning session, has been changed to the regular time of two o'clock.

In his capacity as field director, Mr. Menna and his staff are concerned with assisting service men and women and their dependents in personal and family problems, and which very often means obtaining for them financial assistance.

He is credited with having established a Red Cross camp and hospital program at Valley Forge General and U. S. Naval hospitals. Because of its high therapeutic value, this program, which provides all types of entertainment, is considered by leaders in the medical profession as being extremely helpful in rehabilitation of sick and wounded service men.

Mr. Menna's extensive Red Cross background includes services as field director in Central Africa, French Senegal, British gold coast, South America and Puerto Rico.

He is a graduate of Temple University, Phila., and before entering Red Cross work was athletic coach at Ambler high school.

This program is in charge of Mrs. George W. Wright, chairman of the club's public relations committee.

Special music has been arranged by Mrs. Albert M. Dowden, music chairman. This is a guest day and the hostesses will be Mrs. Harold P. Hunter and Mrs. Serrill D. Detlefson.

Each member is reminded to take a gift for veterans at Valley Forge hospital.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Fisher, Landreth Manor, upon the birth of a daughter born Nov. 21 at Hahnemann hospital, Philadelphia. The baby weighed 7½ lbs., and has been named Constance.

He cited the cost of building a hospital in 1949 was about $15,000 per bed, exclusive of the cost of the site. He said such an institution must have the complete cooperation of the community and there must be no distinction as to race, color and creed.

He gave it as his opinion that "we definitely need a hospital in this area." He said it will bring basically better medical care, explaining that he meant no reflection upon the present facilities and he said the question might be asked "why has not Dr. Fox been given more support?"

The cost of constructing a hospital here is placed at an estimated $750,000 without the cost of the land.

Mr. Helwig said that a fund-raising organization which specialfantry Divisions as well as the Turkish brigade, elements of which were surrounded.

The Red hordes that wheeled west after smashing south down the middle of the peninsula succeeded, however, in capturing the key rail junction of Kunuri, 42 miles north-northwest of Pyongyang.

Clambering over the bodies of their own dead, the fanatical Chinese engulfed Kunuri after smashing two battalions of the American Second Division which were moving east in an effort to rescue encircled Turkish troops.

The fall of Kunuri cut one of the two major rail-highway routes running from Pyongyang to the Chongchon. There the Chinese were but 15 miles from the western anchor of the front at Sinanju, athwart the coastal rail-highway artery stretching northwest from Pyongyang.

Had the Chinese flanking drive succeeded in reaching Sinanju, a trap would have been snapped behind the U. S. 24th, 25th and elements of the Second Division as well as the ROK First Division and the British Commonwealth 27th Brigade.

However, the latter forces managed to withdraw behind the Chongchon and thus "outrun the enemy"—as one officer put it—thanks to their courageous rear-guard units and the resistance that delayed the foe at Kunuri.

ONE DIVORCE CASE

Civil Court Verdict Upheld;
Motion for New Trial
Dismissed

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 30 — In the Court of Common Pleas, Doylestown, Thrift Feed Mill, Inc., Cross Keys, has named Clarence R. Daniels, Quakertown, R. D. 2, the defendant in a $345.91 action in assumpsit. The claim is dated Nov. 28, 1949, and grows out of the purchase of merchandise.

Walter C. Teller, Quakertown, R. D. 2, has named his wife, Bertha Teller, the defendant in an action in divorce.

A $12,085 Civil Court verdict was upheld and the motion for a new trial dismissed, in a session of Argument Court before President Judge Hiram H. Keller and Judge Edward G. Biester, this week.

Emmanuel H. Klein, attorney, for the plaintiff, I. Helen G. Olexon, administratrix of the Estate of Charles H. Olexon, versus Leroy Hendricks, Orville Crouthamel, Howard B. Shelly, Clarence B. Shelly and Howard B. Shelly, trading as H. B. Shelly and Brother, said the Court ruled that judgment be entered.

"It was a good verdict and one of the largest to be returned by a Civil Court Jury," said the Quakertown attorney.

Charles H. Olexon was killed in an automobile accident in Quakertown in 1945. The plaintiff is the widow of the deceased.

The original complaint was filed May 16, 1949, and October 18, 1949, following a trial, a Civil Court Jury returned a verdict of $12,085.

Motion for a new trial and judgment N.O.V. were filed by counsel for the defendants October 21, 1949, and the case was argued before President Judge Keller and Judge Biester several days ago.

"I was pleased with the $12,085 verdict at the time and feel that it was entirely fair and just since it involved the loss of life," said attorney Klein.
